

MobiCall & Rainbow: a winning combination

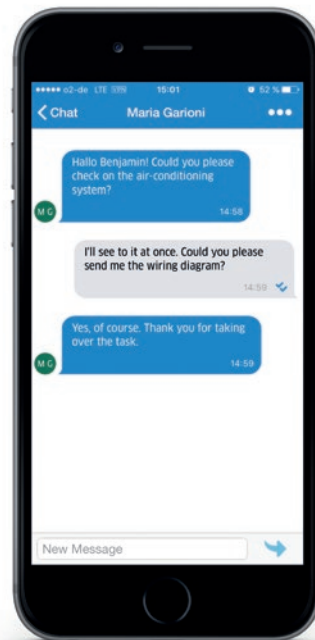

In case of incidents or critical situations, seconds can be crucial to save lives, avoid production downtimes, or secure buildings and their technical infrastructure. In such cases, MobiCall can quickly and efficiently alert the relevant internal and external parties, both on a group or individual basis. Thanks to Rainbow, all potential options can be extended. This solution allows cross-media group chat sessions for a rapid information exchange.

Further it is possible to share documents in real time and call for on-line collaborations. Thus, the interplay between both solutions ensures an optimization of the alarm and information processes. As a consequence, the overall security of your employees is enhanced and a quick response to technical and operational emergencies is guaranteed. This way will avoid faults, machine failures, production losses and downtimes.

Windows and Mac Desktop Client

NM Technical alarm: breakdown of the central air-conditioning system. 10:18

Web Client

In the example above, two employees receive a notification about a technical fault and consult each other directly in the chat.